

Welfare, Well-being and Harmony in World Society?

Cases on changing legal cultures from China-Greenland-
Denmark

Lecture presented by Hanne Petersen

Dr. Jur. Professor of Legal Cultures and Head of CECS, Centre for Comparative and European Legal Studies

Abstract

Welfare has been provided by local and indigenous communities as well as the state. In the 20th C. the Nordic states used legislation to secure welfare of the national populations. Globalization has brought more political autonomy to places like Greenland. Globalization, individualization and transition to service societies has led to more focus on well-being along with a shift to a stronger market orientation and to more precarious relations in labour, community and private life.

About Dr. Petersen

Hanne Petersen has studied in Denmark, Germany and Italy (European University Institute) and has had professorships in Greenland, and long term visiting professorships in Norway and Sweden. She has worked with China more extensively since 2009.

试探国际社会中福利、健康及和谐议题

以中国-格陵兰岛-丹麦各国不断变化的法律文化为例

主讲人：Hanne Petersen

法律博士，法律文化教授，比较法律及欧洲法律研究中心主任

摘要：

中央政府、地方政府和基层社区往往是社会福利的主要提供者。在 20 世纪，北欧国家纷纷通过立法保障了国民的社会福利体系。而全球化使得诸如格陵兰岛等地拥有了更多政治自主权。全球化，个性化及福利社会的转型使得人们更注重健康，加速了往市场导向的转变，也加大了劳动力市场、社区和私人生活之间关系的不确定性。

关于主讲人：

Hanne Petersen 曾在丹麦、德国及意大利（欧洲大学学院）求学，并于格陵兰岛获得教授职称，同时长期在挪威和瑞典做访问教授。2009 年起，她开始深入从事与中国的相关合作。
